

The Albuquerque Archaeological Society has a new, albeit past President. No one stood for the position for the election in December, so the board exercised the clause in the bylaws to have the board vote for a board member to fill the roll.

Evan Kay volunteered to stand for the board vote if no member stood for the general election, and Evan was voted in as President.

2023 President Ann Braswell stepped into the role of co-Director At Large, with the other position taken by Dick Harris.
